

Farm animals and their uses

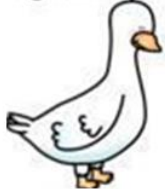

Farm animals have many uses. Some provide us with transport, some give us materials we use to make clothing, and some give us food. Read what the following animals can give us and answer the questions that follow.

chicken

Chickens give us eggs and white meat which we also call chicken.

goose

Geese give us eggs, meat which is called goose as well as feathers we use in our pillows and duvets.

goat

Goats give us meat, which is called mutton, goats milk which can also be made into goat's cheese as well as wool which we use to make clothes.

COW

Cows give us meat, which is called beef, milk which can also be turned into cheese and we can make leather using their hide.

sheep

Sheep give us meat, which is called lamb and mutton, milk which we turn into cheese as well as wool we can use to make clothes.

Pigs give us meat like bacon, ham and pork sausages.

Farm animals

In your exercise book, draw these three animals. Next to each picture write a full sentence telling us what each animal can give us. The things animals give us are called products.
